

Critical Thinking

This entails situations where you have used your problem solving skills, this will be useful in the workplace when required to create innovative solutions that work for clients. Here for example, you can reflect on when you have had to overcome obstacles or create solutions to difficult issues.

